International Conference on Systems Biology (ICSB) is a premier conference in systems biology, organized by the International Society for Systems Biology (ISSB) and hosted by leading research institutions around the world. In previous years, ICSB was held in Spain (2016), Singapore (2015), Australia (2014), and Denmark (2013); for details, please check <http://www.issb.org/conferences.html> for previous meetings.

ICSB 2017 will be held at Blacksburg, VA, in the week of Aug 6-12, 2017. We invite submissions of workshop/tutorial proposals and abstracts on a broad range of topics of interest to the ISSB community. Examples of relevant topics include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Cellular Signaling Networks
- Cellular Decision Making
- Regulatory Network Architecture and Dynamics
- Cellular Variability
- Developmental Dynamics
- Synthetic Biology
- Cancer Systems Biology
- Computational Methodologies
- Omic Technologies and Applications
- Multicellular Systems Biology
- Systems Neuroscience
- Biocomplexity
- Control Theory and Cell Physiology
- Systems Biology Education
- Model Organisms
- Emerging Technologies

For workshop/tutorial proposals:

Each workshop/tutorial proposal should include the following information:

- Motivation and rationale for the workshop
- Proposed workshop length
- Names and affiliations of main organizers
- A description of the workshop/tutorial format
- A detailed timeline for inviting and accepting papers and presenters for the workshop should be presented.
